

The evening's best dressed gentlemen: Andrew Scott, Dr Michael Apa and Amir Ghaffarpour, all wearing Brioni

DECEMBER 14, VII CLUB, CONRAD HOTEL, DUBAI

Ali al Saeed, Faraq al Nefisi and Sameer Arif

Charmaine Cinco, Nancy Gatimu and Natasha Omeara

ELEQT DIFF GALA

As the 12th edition of the Dubai International Film Festival (DIFF) drew to a close last month, Esquire Middle East teamed up with the exclusive social discovery network, ELEQT, to host one of the festival's official gala parties.

Celebrating as only Esquire knows how, the ultra-stylish evening was held at the Vii Terrace & Lounge, followed by an after-party at newly opened Vii Club at the Conrad Dubai. The event saw an exclusive guestlist of VIPs attending in order to celebrate the region's finest film-makers.

On the night, the Esquire team, in association with the fine Italian menswear couture house Brioni, picked out three of the event's most dapper men (see page 49) who did well to stand out among the sharp-dressed crowd.

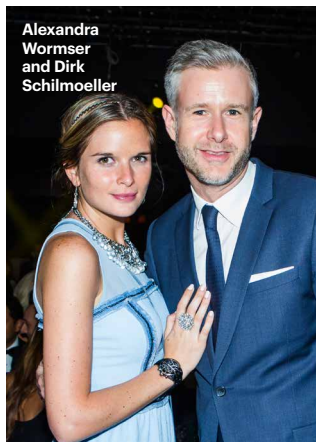

Among the attendees were many local and international celebrities, movie directors and producers, including the jury members of the Dubai International Film Festival, ambassadors and even a few high-profile sportsmen — most of whom needed no encouragement to dance their way into the small hours of the morning.

Chizlane Ben, Marie Claire Accordinno, Naila and Karim Chbib

Adham Faris, Curt and Andy Oyegoke

Alexandra Wormser and Dirk Schilmoeller

Huma Khan, Shyrose and Soraya Bacai

PHOTOS: AJITH NARENDRA, ITP